Game Highlights:

On a Monday night, the Homer Phillies hosted the Nationals at Falter Field. The Nationals struck first, scoring a run with an RBI single from Khrystopher Nelson and adding another on a fielder's choice. However, the Phillies capitalized on seven walks from the Nationals, plating four runs to take the lead after the first inning. In the top of the third inning, the Nationals' bats came alive, tallying five runs. They achieved this through Krystopher Nelson's single, a bases-loaded line drive double off the fence by Evan Rogoff, and a bases-clearing single from Jonah Fassett. With the newfound lead, Nationals pitcher Evan Rogoff efficiently retired the heart of the Homer Phillies lineup in just 11 pitches. The Nationals continued their offensive onslaught in the top of the fourth inning, scoring eight runs. The inning featured a bases-loaded triple from Harry Giroux, a single from Tyler Hanson, a double from Jonah Fassett, and an inside-the-park home run from Rashad Allen, who sprinted around the bases after launching the ball over the right fielder's head. This capped off the impressive inning. In the bottom of the fourth, Evan Rogoff sealed the victory for the Nationals with three strikeouts, bringing the game to an end. The Nationals will face the Giants at Key Bank Field on Wednesday night to conclude the regular season.
